Master English to Join the Global Community

Leona Wellington

Leona is an author, educator, artist and actor who earned a BA in Secondary Ed, an MEd (TESL) and a Cambridge International Diploma for Teachers and Trainers (CIDTT) UK. She has taught English to students and teachers in different parts of the world, including North America, Costa Rica, Oman and Kazakhstan. She is passionate about preserving and teaching the world's common language to improve communication across the globe.

Her program is based on core principles that students need to acquire to form a solid foundation in the English language such as:

- Word order that enables learners to 'Think in English' from day one
- The essential controlling verbs tools and their exclusive functions
- Accurate mastery of statements, questions, negatives and imperatives
- Layering acquisition from concrete to abstract at any student level
- Shifting from one mode to another quickly and automatically.

She accomplishes this, not through explanations, but through student centered practice that is engaging, fun, personalized and creative. She uses right brain techniques for acquisition versus learning and focuses on capturing and maintaining motivation which is the key to sustained learning of any kind and for any level or age.

Endorsements:

"Her teaching model really speaks to the universal properties of all languages. I love the four verb families as they are accurate, very helpful for the learner, and sum up the English language helping verbs."

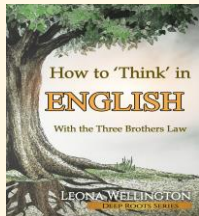

~ Jilani Warsi, Ph.D, Associate Professor, Queens College, N.Y.

"Leona's method of explaining the structures, rules and roots of the English language are essential for every English learner. I hope people from all over the world will obtain her book because of its high quality."

~ Yusuf Alimukhammad (Colleague at the Writing Center UNizwa)

"With you, I gained a strong basis to know what I know today. I learned a lot with you, more than I learned in College and in high school. So I just have to say, thank you so much!"

~Esteban Barboza, I.S. for H.R., Chiquita Banana, Ft. Lauderdale
